"The Learning Center"

The Learning Center is open every day that the college is open, from 8:00 AM to 4:30 PM (or later if needed). We are located in the library. The Learning Center is more than just a place to learn—it's also a place to relax and take a break from class. Tutors are available, and there are quiet study rooms, as well as study groups. Stop by and come see us! Miigwech

Boozhoo! You can call me Jeff, I'm a second year student at LLTC. My field of study is Indigenous Science – Forest Ecology and I expect to graduate in December 2025. I'm willing to help with any subject, and my areas of strength are English/Writing, Ojibwe, Math, Sciences, and Arts & Humanities.

There's a lot to take in as a new student, but that's why we have the Learning Center and crew of tutors ready to help. If you aren't sure whether it's a place for you, I encourage you to come by and check it out. I am available in person most days when I'm not in class, and via Zoom by appointment. Miigwech bizindawiyeg – thank you for listening to me.

Aaniin Anishinaabedoog, my name is Marissa Oothoudt, and I'm a sophomore graduating in Spring 2025 with a degree in Indigenous Leadership and Liberal Arts. This is my second semester working in the Learning Center as the English tutor, but I also like to help out in other subjects such as Philosophy, History, and Speech. If you're interested in my help, don't be afraid to ask. I usually spend most of my time in the learning center, if not in class, so stop by if you need help or even for a cup of coffee!

Aaniin/boozhoo nindinawemaaganidog. My name is Mya and I am in my last semester here. I am going for my Associate of Arts in Liberal Education. This will be my second semester being a tutor and I can help with Math, History, Science and Ojibwe.

I usually open the Learning Center right away in the morning and I spend my time there studying when I don't have class until 4:30 most days. I highly recommend stopping by and although daunting, I recommend asking for help if you need it. We are here to help one another succeed after all. I have high hopes for this semester. Miigwech bizindawiyeg.

Aaniin. My name is Nicholas Staples, I have been a tutor in the Learning Center for a year. My major is Business Management, and this is my last semester at LLTC. I am comfortable in tutoring most subjects. I have been tutoring in Algebra, Computer Applications, and I have helped with some of the Business students as well.

Going to college can be scary, and overwhelming. My advice to you, is to reach out. Ask questions, get involved with your college, and most importantly push through the obstacles that come your way.
